so clear that the reforms which Mr. Baring advocates would result in the establishment of a peasant proprietary, or that it is well-established that class would be permanent. The small English yeomanry has disappeared, not in consequence of primogeniture or the cost of conveyancing, but under the natural operation of economic laws, and we ourselves have found in our own Australian experience that it is much easier to stick a free-selector on to the land than it is to keep him there. Small proprietors are an excellent element in society when they are able and willing to hold their own, when their existence is a natural thing, when they do not require for their establishment and preservation artificial support; which artificial support must mean, in some shape or other, a deduction from the income or the liberty of other people. A country that naturally enjoys the advantage of a large freehold proprietary is happy, but a

Nor is it by any means certain that the subdivision of the soil of Ireland into small freehold properties would solve the land troubles of that country. It is a common thing to reason from the example of France, and argue that what happens there would also happen in Ireland. But there is this difference, that, while the population of France is stationary, that of Ireland multiplies rapidly. The over-renting in Ireland is directly traceable to the excessive competition for farms, and that is due to the over-supply of cultivators. Landlords could not possibly get rack-rents if tenants would not give them, and tenants would not offer them unless they wanted to over-bid each other. If the multiplication of small freeholds in Ireland were accompanied by the same increase of population as in past times, there would be the same competition for the land, and with that, competition for the rack-rent.

for the land, and subletting might give rise to difficulties and dangers as great as any that have been seen in past days. But though Mr. BROWN'S reform cannot be accepted as a perfect panacea for all evils, he is on safe ground in promoting the experiment so far as can be done consistently with the recognition of private rights. It would, of course, be absurd to confiscate the land of one private owner simply to make it the land of another private owner, and to pretend that there was any principle involved in such change. On principle, therefore, as well as by political instinct, Mr. BROWN fully recognises that private landowners should be fairly bought out. That this can be done successfully has already been shown in many instances, and notably in the case of the Church lands; and the scheme is still more promising in view of the great reduction in the price of land that has been recently caused. American importations, as well as the new land law, have reduced the market value of land, and landlords are willing to take a lower price now than they were a year ago. A company is being formed, in which Mr. Balfour's brother joins with Mr. PARSELL, to buy large estates, and then divide them. Of course Mr. HENRY GORCE looks upon movements of this kind as only aggravating the evil. To have many landlords instead of one is only multiplying the trouble. A few rich men can offer less opposition to confiscation than can be offered by a great many middle-class families. It is because the land in England is in comparatively so few hands that the policy of confiscation is not resented by the mass of the people. But if the farms of the country were all owned in freehold, the owners would have their family connections even in the towns, and the number of people directly or indirectly interested in land would be so large as to make confiscation unpopular. Mr. BRIGHT'S conviction that small freeholds are strength to a country, necessarily causes him to oppose big game, and big game laws to a smaller class

He represented Mr. GEORGE's doctrine as being the antithetical extravagance to the slaveholders' doctrine. Capital and labour are at war, said the American slaveholders of the south. Let us end that war by the subjugation of one: let capital rule and labour be the slave, and then all will be peace and prosperity. The communist takes exactly the opposite ground. He says, Let labour rule and capital be the slave, and then all will be well. The true policy, however, is to find the real balance and adjustment of their several claims. The centrifipetal force would drive the world crashing into the sun; the centrifugal force would send it flying into the coldness and darkness of outer space. By the happy balance of the two the earth is kept in its orbit. Social forces need to be as happily adjusted, and so to adjust them is the difficulty we have to solve. Mr. Gronca, however, is not a communist as respects property in general, but only as respects property in land.

erty in land. He approves of property of all sorts except property in the soil, and he must not be confounded therefore with those who promote insurrection against capital generally. Setting the confiscation part of his theory aside, his quarrel with social and political economists is principally with those who, like Mr. Baur, believe that it adds greatly to the strength of a nation to attach a large section of the community directly to the soil.

In the Commonwealth of Massachusetts there are four State asylums for the insane. The maintenance, management, and success of these institutions are fully set out in reports similar to those which are supplied by our Inspector-General of the Insane, of institutions here. With us asylums form part of the COLONIAL SECRETARY'S Department; there is an Inspector-General, and the immediate working of the institutions is in the hands of a local staff. Each of our asylums is of the four institutions referred to above is under a board of five trustees. These gentlemen receive reports from medical and managing superintendents, and in turn they report to the Governor and Council of the Commonwealth. These reports are comprehensive, one of them having nearly 100 pages. Whether the management is any the better or not for this daylight, every citizen in the State knows, or may know exactly what is being done. The points of comparison between these institutions and ours can be taken as only approximately correct, but that is enough. In the Massachusetts State there was in 1883 a population of about 1,800,000. The number of lunatics in State institutions was 2554. This gives a percentage of about .14 insane persons. With us the figures were 817,468 population, and 2261 inmates of various asylums. The percentage in this case is rather more than .28.

The policy was entered into on the 7th August, 1882, and it was provided that the defendants should be answerable for any loss occasioned by the fraud of the salesman which should be committed and discovered during the continuance of the policy. The fraud was committed during the continuance of the policy, but was not discovered till some time afterwards, and immediately on the discovery notice was given to the company. The defendants refused to pay on the ground that the fraud of the salesman was not discovered by the company until after the expiration of the policy, and that the policy was only to pay if the fraud and the discovery of the fraud took place within the year for which the policy of insurance was made out. This question was reserved for the full Court, and subject to it a verdict was given for the plaintiffs. To-day the defendants applied to the Court to enter a verdict for them on the ground that by the conditions of the policy, the fraud was not discovered by the company until after the expiration of the policy, and that the policy was only to pay if the fraud and the discovery of the fraud took place within the year for which the policy of insurance was made out. This question was reserved for the full Court, and subject to it a verdict was given for the plaintiffs.

At the late nisi prius sittings of the Supreme Court a motion was made in which William Manning and others, trading as Manning, and Co., sued the London Guarantee and Accident Company on a policy of guarantee of fidelity of one Edward Charles Shaw, who was engaged as salesman to the plaintiffs. ## RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN SOUTH AUSTRALIAN STATE SCHOOLS.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ADELAIDE, FRIDAY.

At the invitation of the Bishop of Adelaide a private meeting of ministers of religion was held in the Church Office this morning, for the purpose of discussing what common action should be taken regarding the Education question. The Protestant denominations were fully represented. A motion was carried that "this meeting, composed of ministers of various religious denominations, convened by the Bishop of Adelaide, express their dissatisfaction with the existing Education Act so far as it prohibits the use of the Bible during school hours."

It was resolved to hold a meeting on Monday, when the resolution will be proposed to the effect that no system of instruction in State schools can be regarded by the ministers of religion as sufficient which does not include Bible reading and teaching, and that such shall be given during school hours; that it shall not be of a denominational character; and that there shall be a conscience clause in operation, under which no teacher shall be compelled to give such Bible teaching as is contrary to his convictions, and that no child shall receive such Bible teaching contrary to the wish of its parents, and that it is the general wish of the character of the Bible reading and teaching be a system adopted similar to that of the London School Board, namely, instruction in selected passages of Scripture.

The weather is fine and warm, and there is no appearance of rain.

The sufferer was immediately conveyed to Lithgow, where it was found necessary to amputate two fingers, and he is now in a fair way of recovering favourably. He will probably be sent to Sydney to-day.

The Quarter Sessions are over, and of the three cases tried there was only one conviction. The District Court held many cases on the sheet, and several caused a good deal of public excitement. A local doctor, who had been accused of forging an order for money on the Government, proceeded against his accuser and got a verdict for full damages claimed. Another case was that of two brothers, who had been accused of trespass, and the Judge tried hard for the cases to be settled amicably. In the first case a verdict for £50 was given; and in the second case, which was tried by a jury, a verdict was returned for the defendant.

Stock, Shares, and Money.

HALF A MILLION OF MONEY.

TO LEND, TO LEND, TO LEND.

Many anxious eyes are cast upon the advertisements of persons who advertise money to be lent. Some pretend to be solicitors, others are promoters of bogus sweepstakes, and others are advertised to advertise their names. Some style themselves as bankers, and pretend to have a board of directors to govern their affairs, while in reality the institution is run by a single individual, assisted by a little boy (the secretary), who receives 5 per cent. week for his name. The cunning individual knows well that if his own name appeared the public would shun him.

HOME WRECKERS I HAVE KNOWN.
I have known money-lenders, when selling furniture under a bill of sale, to remove the bedstead from beneath the corpse of the unfortunate borrower.

IN ANOTHER CASE.
To remove the furniture, food, and clothing, and refuse to leave their victim's.

FAVOURITE DOG.
A miserable fellow, torturer of his little children and the hysterical life of his wife, rushed from the house in a state of semi-madness, and

PLUNGED INTO THE WELL.
Space will not permit me to describe other harrowing scenes, but I trust the foregoing will be sufficient to warn the borrowing portion of our community against applying for money from the sharks who infest our city. In many instances the "cunning" money lender is assisted by the "artful" lawyer, but there is some satisfaction in knowing that they incur the hatred of their fellow-men.

READ ON.
I have been honoured with a commission to invest the handsome sum of

FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND POUNDS
at a moderate rate of interest upon the following securities, viz., Mortgages, Household Furniture, Bonded Goods, Merchandise, Jewellery, Reversionary, Annuities, Life Policies, Promissory Notes, or anything suitable.

MY CUSTOMERS.
Gentlemen of Rank, Members of Parliament, Bank Managers, Barristers, Solicitors, Doctors, Mayors, Aldermen, Architects, Auctioneers, Merchants, Military, Sea, and Air, and others, who are desirous of obtaining loans of money, can obtain money without security, and there are no fees or costs. You are treated with the utmost courtesy, and the most profound secrecy is observed.

I SHALL NOT DETAIN YOU MUCH LONGER.
A gentleman obtained assistance from me last week, who informed me that he had been besieged by debt and interest by a building; when he took a nap after dinner he would dream of money-lenders and the goal, and when he awoke his office he put his ear where his hand ought to be—in his pocket—and was so much surprised to find it empty. He demanded the loan of three hundred pounds, and I advanced it to him. He was so much surprised to find it empty. He demanded the loan of three hundred pounds, and I advanced it to him.

THE MIGNON PIANO.
is the perfection of an instrument, and has been acknowledged by hundreds of TESTIMONIES to be the finest medium-sized piano ever introduced into Australia. Every reliance can be placed on its beautiful tone, and its perfect construction.

will never be allowed by us to compete at any exhibition. There is not a greater piece of work than the exhibition model; besides, who after all are not as much interested in the people themselves and what are the juries at exhibitions invariably composed of?

THE MIGNON PIANO.
We are content to stand in the opinion of the public at large, and after many years in business we think that we possess the confidence of the public generally throughout the two colonies of Victoria and New South Wales.

THE MIGNON PIANO.
can be had in a variety of styles—walnut or mahogany case, or gold engraved in the most elegant manner. Also, the instrument is supplied at a low price for cash, or by instalment, for either one, two, or three years.

THE MIGNON PIANO.
One of the largest and best constructed Pianos ever turned out of a factory.

THE MIGNON PIANO.
Full-toned. Fine and massive. Perfection of tone. Beautiful quality. Always recommended.

THE MIGNON PIANO.
is manufactured exclusively for Messrs. N. and Co. No other similar sized instrument has a show with it.

Musical Instruments.

AN ENVIABLE POSITION.

The enviable position held by Messrs. NICHOLSON and CO. amongst the Music Trade of Australia is due solely to the merits of the instruments sold by them.

Messrs. N. and Co. are always to the front with novelty. No firm has done more in introducing new Pianos, new improvements, and new styles.

We lead the way, and let others follow—copying as some of them do, or trying to do, almost every movement. Poor mortals! We can well afford to let them go on in the way they are going.

Some credit might be given to them if they would only once in a way introduce a novelty.

There are 30 years colonies, and is pronounced on all hands to be the best, and the most reliable of all instruments of the kind.

Do they think to catch the intelligent public of the present day? We doubt it.

Better things cannot be expected.

Blood cannot be drawn from a stone.

RELIABLE WOODEN PIANOS, and BONA-FIDE NAMES.

Do they think to catch the intelligent public of the present day? We doubt it.

Better things cannot be expected.

Blood cannot be drawn from a stone.

MESSRS. NICHOLSON AND CO.
are determined to keep up their present high reputation, and they can say without fear of contradiction that no other house has so fine and well-selected a stock.

PIANOS and ORGANS.
EVERY INSTRUMENT IS GUARANTEED

SEVEN YEARS.
IMMENSE SUCCESS OF THE

NEW MODEL PIANOS.
THE MIGNON PIANO

has been submitted to a severe test; it has been sent to the most extreme parts of our colonies, and is pronounced on all hands to be the finest, best, and cheapest Piano of its size ever manufactured.

THE MIGNON PIANO
is remarkable for its sweet quality of tone, for its volume and rich ringing tone. It is also remarkable for its delicate and perfect touch, a quality seldom found in instruments of much greater pretensions. The workmanship and general finish are most superb, the materials used being the best possible, the whole resulting being an artistic Piano in every sense of the word.

THE MIGNON PIANO
is the perfection of an instrument, and has been acknowledged by hundreds of TESTIMONIES to be the finest medium-sized piano ever introduced into Australia. Every reliance can be placed on its beautiful tone, and its perfect construction.

will never be allowed by us to compete at any exhibition. There is not a greater piece of work than the exhibition model; besides, who after all are not as much interested in the people themselves and what are the juries at exhibitions invariably composed of?

THE MIGNON PIANO.
We are content to stand in the opinion of the public at large, and after many years in business we think that we possess the confidence of the public generally throughout the two colonies of Victoria and New South Wales.

THE MIGNON PIANO.
can be had in a variety of styles—walnut or mahogany case, or gold engraved in the most elegant manner. Also, the instrument is supplied at a low price for cash, or by instalment, for either one, two, or three years.

THE MIGNON PIANO.
One of the largest and best constructed Pianos ever turned out of a factory.

THE MIGNON PIANO.
Full-toned. Fine and massive. Perfection of tone. Beautiful quality. Always recommended.

THE MIGNON PIANO.
is manufactured exclusively for Messrs. N. and Co. No other similar sized instrument has a show with it.
